Exercise 2

They will have been repairing the road by the end of this year.

Don't worry. I will have been learning it for a year by the time I leave for France.

No wonder. She will have been waiting for Tim for five hours when his plane finally arrives.

Definitely. He will have been teaching for five years by the time he's 30.

We will have been picking apples for a week by Saturday. We'll be finished.

I hope so. I will have been revising for it for two weeks when I take it.

Yes, she is. She will have been living next door for a year next month.

Good idea. When she turns twenty, she will have been playing the piano for twelve years.

Yes, please. At nine o'clock she will have been sleeping for ten hours.

Yes, they are. They will have been working together for thirty five years before they retire.
