

Gerund or infinitive: exercise 4

Key with answers.

Kate: Why has Mike moved out of your house? Let him explain what he means to do now.

Beryl: No, never. I gave up trying to understand him a long time ago.

Kate: Still - would you consider getting in touch with him if I called him?

Beryl: I can't forbid you to call him, but I warn you not to tell him that I know about it.

Kate: I don't understand doing such stupid things. I'd hate to find my house empty one day.

Beryl: I hate finding it empty every day. My mother suggests staying with me for a couple of weeks, but I've made up my mind to get over it on my own.

Kate: I always advise going out in such cases. It helps you forget | to forget.

Beryl: Please, don't advise me to go out, if it means going out alone.

Kate: O.K. I'll try to call Mike first and then we'll see.
