

Third conditional: exercise 2

Key with answers

I couldn't help you because I was ill. If I had not fallen ill, I would have helped you.

I didn't apply for the job. Provided that I had been offered the position, I would have had to move to New York.

I asked about the way. But if I had not had the GPS, I would not have found the place.

We were on the beach all day. But if we had kept in the shade, we would not have got sunburnt.

We didn't see the film. Suppose our dad had not preferred the football match, we would have watched the film.

She got up at 5 o'clock. She would have missed the train if she had got up later.

My new classmates were friendly. If my teachers had behaved in a friendly manner too, I would have liked the new school.

I never ate sushi in Japan. I was afraid that I would have felt sick if I had tried it.

You couldn't believe Jill. If you had told her a secret, she would have given it away.

Did they want you to work overtime? They could have asked you to do it on condition that they had paid you a bonus.

Our tip: www.e-grammar.org/pdf-books/ All PDF exercises + grammar rules in one place.